

Biography: David A. Miller, M.D.

Dr. David A. Miller, along with his father, Dr. Frank C. Miller, are co-creators of the Electronic Fetal Heart Rate Monitoring Interpretation and Management education program for clinical professionals offered by GE Healthcare.

Dr. David A. Miller is Associate Professor of Clinical Obstetrics and Gynecology at the University of Southern California Keck School of Medicine. He is Director of Maternal Fetal Medicine, Chairman of Graduate Medical Education and Director of the USC Obstetrics and Gynecology Residency Program at Hollywood Presbyterian Medical Center in Los Angeles.

He serves as Medical Director of the Children's Hospital Los Angeles – University of Southern California Institute for Maternal and Fetal Health, a multidisciplinary, multi-institutional center specializing in fetal and neonatal diagnosis and therapy. He has served as peer reviewer for the Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology, the American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology, the Journal of Reproductive Medicine, the British Journal of Obstetrics and Gynaecology, the Journal of Perinatology and Fetal Diagnosis and Therapy. He is a member of the American College of Obstetricians & Gynecologists (ACOG), the Society for Maternal Fetal Medicine (SMFM) and the International Fetal Medicine and Surgery Society (IFMSS).

Dr. Miller received his undergraduate degree from the University of Southern California and his medical degree from the University of Arkansas School of Medicine. He completed internship and residency training in Obstetrics and Gynecology at Vanderbilt University Medical Center and fellowship training in Maternal Fetal Medicine at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles.

Board certified in obstetrics and gynecology and a maternal-fetal medicine subspecialist, Dr. Miller's academic interests include antepartum and intrapartum fetal evaluation with emphasis on fetal physiology and effective, standardized methods of training in electronic fetal heart rate monitoring.